

ANA'S INTERVIEW

Ana is new in town and wants a job. She sees a sign in a grocery shop window on her street. It says, "Now Hiring Cashiers." She goes inside and asks for an application.

Ana fills out the form. She writes her name, phone number, and work experience. The next day, Ana receives a call from the owner of the store, Mr. Thomas. He says, "Can you come for an interview on Thursday at 9:00 a.m.?" Ana says, "Yes, I can. Thank you!" After hanging up the phone, Ana looks for her resume. A resume is a list of your work history and skills. Ana prints a copy and puts it in her bag.

On Thursday, Ana wakes up early. She wears clean clothes and brushes her hair. She wants to look professional. At 9:00 a.m., Ana meets Mr. Thomas. He smiles and shakes her hand. "Good morning," he says. Ana smiles and says, "Good morning. Nice to meet you." Then she looks in her bag—and her resume is not there! She forgets to bring it.

"I'm sorry," Ana says. "I forget my resume at home."

Mr. Thomas says, "That's okay. You can email it to me later."

During the interview, Ana sits up straight, listens carefully, and speaks clearly. At the end, she says, "Thank you for your time."

The next day, Ana emails her resume. Later, Mr. Thomas calls again. He says, "Ana, we want to hire you. You start on Monday!"
